What Is Learned ?

The Study Program is now offering the possibility for teachers of English to take credit-earning activities by joining the Educational Leadership or Teaching English to Young Learners (TEYL) as the elective programs of the Master of Education in TEFL (MPBI). At the end of each course, a participant who passes the course will receive a certificate. To maintain the quality of our Study Program, we employ qualified teaching staff all holding doctoral degrees and some of them being full professors. The Master of Education Program in TEFL (MPBI) gives an exciting opportunity to qualified individuals to deepen their understanding of English language teaching theories and practices. This is achieved through taught units, peer teaching practice, workshops and research opportunities in English language teaching. The program also allows students to reflect on both the aims of English language teaching and the appropriateness of techniques for achieving success. Graduates of this Study Program are expected to be competent English Education practitioners at any level of education. Furthermore, graduates of this course are also ready to continue their study to the higher level of education, the doctorate program, in the field of ELT.
